Dane Court Grammar School is an outstanding mixed, selective, 11-18 school, located on the outskirts of the thriving coastal town of Broadstairs. The school is at the heart of the Coastal Academies Trust, working with one primary and three non-selective secondary schools to enhance the education on offer to students in Thanet. Dane Court is a teaching school, working in partnership with schools from Sandwich to Canterbury and Herne Bay to offer excellent opportunities for teacher training and professional development. We are an IB world school, teaching International Baccalaureate diploma and vocational courses in the sixth form. Our outstanding facilities, well-motivated students and hard-working staff make Dane Court an exciting and rewarding environment in which to work.

We seek to appoint an enthusiastic and able historian, able to teach across the age range and to challenge the thinking of all students, including the most able. Opportunities to teach outside the department may be available to the right candidate. We offer a comprehensive package of support and staff development, including, within the Coastal Academies Trust, opportunities to prepare for and experience leadership roles across a variety of pastoral and curriculum settings.

If you are interested in the possibility of teaching history at Dane Court Grammar School and would like to know more, we encourage you to contact Andrew Baker (Head of History) or Andrew Fowler (Headteacher) for an informal conversation and to arrange a tour of the school. Applicants should complete the school's application form and submit this with a covering letter. The post is full-time, but requests for part-time working will also be considered. Closing date 12 noon on Tuesday 24 October 2017.

This post is subject to Enhanced DBS Disclosure procedures. Dane Court Grammar School is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children.
